September Commentary

Your Fund (O Acc GBP) returned +0.6% during the month.

September saw further announcements of massive deals in the Artificial Intelligence (AI) sector. At the end of the month NVIDIA announced plans to invest $100bn in OpenAI. The proceeds are likely to be used to secure Graphics Processing Unit (GPU) capacity, with part of the investment ultimately flowing back to NVIDIA as sales. Such vendor financing deals are not a new financial innovation. Similar financing arrangements were common in the dot-com era to fund the fibre build-out. Ironically, Jensen Huang (CEO of NVIDIA) is one of the few tech leaders remaining from this period. The circularity of the deal raises questions on sustainability of GPU demand and increases the fragility of the continued AI-driven rally.

The scale of the investment into AI is also becoming visible at a national level. Harvard economist Jason Furman suggests investment in information processing equipment and software was responsible for 92% of GDP growth¹ in the first half of the year, or put another way, the rest of the economy is not growing much. Such calculations are crude and exclude a partial offset in the form of rising imports, but they give a sense of the scale of the investments. If the AI investments prove to be unprofitable or demand for AI products takes longer to materialise than expected, then it could lead to a slowdown that is meaningful for the overall economy.

Within the multi-asset strategy our exposure to AI is primarily through established, profitable businesses like Microsoft or Alphabet. Both long-term holdings have very profitable cloud computing, software and advertising businesses that drive profits, allowing them to invest in AI optionality.

Despite the exuberance in valuations within the AI sector, the majority of holdings within the strategy are trading on reasonable valuations. 14 of the 20 companies held are currently trading below their 10-year average price-to-earnings multiple. We continue to follow the impact of AI on economies and markets, whilst avoiding areas where expectations (and valuations) appear frothy.

Important Information

Please refer to Troy's Glossary of Investment terms here. Fund performance data provided is calculated net of fees with income reinvested unless stated otherwise. All performance and income data is in relation to the stated share class, performance of other share classes may differ. Past performance is not a guide to future performance. Overseas investments may be affected by movements in currency exchange rates. The value of an investment and any income from it may fall as well as rise and investors may get back less than they invested. The historic dividend yield reflects distributions declared over the past twelve months as a percentage of the fund's price, as at the date shown. The yield is not guaranteed and will fluctuate. It does not include any preliminary charge and investors may be subject to tax on their distributions. The UK Retail Prices Index (RPI) is a target benchmark for the fund as the Fund aims to achieve a return (the money made or lost on an investment) that is above the rate of inflation, reference to other benchmarks are for comparative purposes only. Tax legislation and the levels of relief from taxation can change at any time. Any change in the tax status of a Fund or in tax legislation could affect the value of the investments held by the Fund or its ability to provide returns to its investors. The tax treatment of an investment, and any dividends received, will depend on the individual circumstances of the investor and may be subject to change in the future. There is no guarantee that the objective of the investments will be met. The Fund may use currency forward derivatives for the purpose of efficient portfolio management. The UK RPI figures shown are a combination of the actual rate of RPI, as calculated by the Office of National Statistics, and estimates for the previous month. This is a marketing communication. Information on the risks of an investment in the fund can be found in the Prospectus.
