September Commentary

Your Fund returned -2.1% during the month compared to +1.9% for the FTSE All-Share Index (TR).

September was a relatively quiet month for corporate news flow in the Fund, although we received half-year results from Next plc and full-year results from Smiths Group.

Next continues to defy the UK economic gloom, posting half-year sales growth of +10% and post-tax profit growth of +13%. Growth was broad-based, however, Next's UK online and international operations were the standout contributors. We think the trajectory for Next remains exciting, with management creating tangible new sources of growth that were hard to imagine when we first bought the shares nine years ago.

Smiths Group also reported strong results, with group sales advancing +9% organically over the past year alongside healthy margin progression. Smiths is a longstanding FTSE 'mini conglomerate', but there are significant changes in process. The company is splitting off two of its four divisions, with plans to sell Smiths Interconnect by the end of the calendar year, followed by a separation of Smiths Detection thereafter. We are supportive of these capital allocation decisions, crystallising value for shareholders, and focusing the company on its two highest quality businesses – John Crane and Flex-Tek.

Rather than specific company news flow, your Fund's underperformance in the month was driven primarily by two factors: non-ownership of Banks and Defence stocks, which continued their trend of recent outperformance. And the comparatively weak share price performance of a range of more defensive businesses including consumer staples and some quality industrials. Current momentum in favour of certain 'hot' sectors and against more 'defensive' sectors, is, in our view, extreme. The flip side of this dynamic is that the valuations across a number of names in our investment universe look compelling. Reflective of this point, we started a new holding in the month, which we will profile in a future monthly commentary.
