Past performance is not a guide to future performance

January Commentary

Your Fund returned +2.3% during the month compared to +1.3% for the MSCI World Index (NR) GBP.

The strongest contributor to performance for the month was Nintendo which appreciated by 12.9% in January. At the time of writing (2nd February) the shares are reaching new all-time highs in yen terms. The steepness of the rise may be a surprise to us, but the trajectory is not.

We have long considered this company an exciting prospect having invested in the company since the Fund's launch in November 2021. Since then, events have progressed well. One notable positive was the great success of the Super Mario Bros. film released in April of last year. This is the highest-grossing video game adaptation movie of all time. It was a timely reminder of the broad appeal of Nintendo's intellectual property and the company's new willingness to exploit it – albeit in a measured way.

The company has announced a new film project is underway under the Legend of Zelda franchise and we would expect a Donkey Kong project to be forthcoming in time. We await the release of these movies with interest. More importantly, and much more impactful to profitability, is the upcoming launch of the new console; the Switch 2. While not confirmed, investors appear to be becoming increasingly confident that this will be in 2024. Further (again not confirmed) it is likely to be an upgraded version of the (very successful) existing machine rather than something radically different. This has been a concern following failed product launches in the past. The valuation of the shares is slowly catching up with reality. 2024 could be an exciting year for Nintendo as well as for both shareholders and gamers.
