October Commentary

Your Fund returned +2.8% during the month compared to +3.7% for the FTSE All-Share Index (TR).

Equities were the primary driver of returns in October. Alphabet, the largest single contributor, reported strong results with sales growth accelerating across all its major units. Search and YouTube Ads grew 15%, whilst Cloud growth accelerated to 34%.¹ We added to the holding both in December 2024 and in April 2025. Since April, the shares have approximately doubled as concerns over AI disruption gave way to an appreciation of Alphabet's advantages. It is unsurprising, for a company which has been investing in AI for years, that its own large language model, Gemini, is proving highly competitive versus peers. Alphabet has the added benefit of network effects built up over years; Google Maps recently became the company's seventh platform to house over two billion users. The shares' valuation has risen from just under 15x forward earnings² today as Alphabet's operating performance suggests it is well placed to evolve its business model for an age of AI. We do not think this is an egregious valuation given the company's prospects but we have taken some profits, conscious of the risks to large-cap technology stocks should the market correct.

We also saw a strong contribution during the month from Agilent, the manufacturer of life sciences measurement instrumentation owned in the Fund since 2019. We added to the shares in April following a decline in valuation. Since then, the shares have appreciated roughly 50%. In October, we met with the head of the company's CrossLab division, which sells services and consumables to Agilent's end-customers ranging from the pharmaceutical sector to food and academia. It does so with the help of 4,000 field services professionals, highly trained engineers who are trusted partners to Agilent's customers around the world. The division, which is growing recurring revenues at a high single-digit rate, with operating margins in the low-thirties, is expected to contribute to group earnings growth in the low double-digits over the medium term.

Important Information

Please refer to Troy's Glossary of Investment terms here. Fund performance data provided is calculated net of fees with income reinvested unless stated otherwise. All performance and income data is in relation to the stated share class, performance of other share classes may differ. Past performance is not a guide to future performance. Overseas investments may be affected by movements in currency exchange rates. The value of an investment and any income from it may fall as well as rise and investors may get back less than they invested. The historic yield reflects distributions declared over the past twelve months as a percentage of the fund's price, as at the date shown. It does not include any preliminary charge and investors may be subject to tax on their distributions. The UK Retail Prices Index (RPI) is a target benchmark for the fund as the Fund aims to achieve a return (the money made or lost on an investment) that is above the rate of inflation, reference to other benchmarks are for comparative purposes only. Tax legislation and the levels of relief from taxation can change at any time. Any change in the tax status of a Fund or in tax legislation could affect the value of the investments held by the Fund or its ability to provide returns to its investors. The tax treatment of an investment, and any dividends received, will depend on the individual circumstances of the investor and may be subject to change in the future. The yield is not guaranteed and will fluctuate. Any objective will be treated as a target only and should not be considered as an assurance or guarantee of performance of the Fund or any part of it. The Fund may use currency forward derivatives for the purpose of efficient portfolio management. The UK RPI figures shown are a combination of the actual rate of RPI, as calculated by the Office of National Statistics, and estimates for the previous month. Information on the risks of an investment in the fund can be found in the Prospectus.
